

Promoting Excellence in Dementia Dementia through a trauma informed lens

10th March 2022, 2pm-3:30pm

Aim

This webinar will explore how a trauma informed lens might influence dementia care and practice.

We warmly welcome Dr Margaret Brown, Senior Lecturer and Deputy Director: Alzheimer Scotland Centre for Policy and Practice, University of the West of Scotland. As a researcher, educator and practitioner, Margaret has many years of experience in the field of dementia and mental health care for older people. Her current research and educational interest include simulated learning and compassion in advanced dementia, trauma informed dementia care and her PhD study was about quality of life for the person with severe dementia. Margaret is part of the Collaborative Award for Teaching Excellence (CATE) award team 2020. In 2016, she was awarded a lifetime achievement award for 'outstanding commitment in the field of dementia care' from NHS Health (and Education) Scotland and the Scottish Social Services Council.

Learning objectives

This Webinar will enable you

- To connect and explore dementia through the lens of a trauma informed approach.
- To explore trauma in the context of living with dementia for the person and their family.
- To discuss the potential benefits of trauma informed values in dementia care.

Further information

Who should attend?

The webinar is for front line staff working in a wide range of settings across health and social services such as staff in care homes, care at home and primary care who are working at the SKILLED Level of Promoting Excellence in Dementia Practice.

When is the webinar and how can I attend?

The masterclass will take place on 10th of March 2022 at 2pm until 3.30pm. (It will be facilitated via MS Teams Live)

Registration

To register please complete the following form:

<https://response.questback.com/nhseducationforscotland/60lmqey2bb>

For further information and enquiries please contact Admin Officer for NMAHP, Claire Rolfe, at: Claire.rolfe@nhs.scot